

Are you CERTAIN that you are complying with regulations?

My friend, are you providing training for your staff on the topics of 'Modern Slavery' and 'Labour Standards'? If not, you could be in trouble!

In the new public procurement government questionnaires, organisations are asked to confirm and produce evidence that they provide training for their staff on the topics of 'Modern Slavery' and 'Labour Standards'.

You MUST ensure that people who work for you are given appropriate training so they know their rights and can identify and report a labour standard or modern slavery issue if one arises.

You're not only at the risk of great reputational damage through any involvement with modern slavery practices, but many organisations like yours have no idea that modern slavery practices such as human trafficking and labour exploitation are even taking place in their supply chain to try to prevent it.

Modern slavery can be defined as the severe exploitation of people for personal or commercial gain. This can be a complex issue for businesses as well. In 2021 alone, there were 8,730 modern slavery offences recorded by the police. However, the shocking part is that most offences go unrecorded. According to several reports, the real number is estimated to be over 100,000.

Join the fight against modern slavery by empowering your organisation against exploitation with exceptional training on Labour Standards and Modern Slavery from Tick The Box.
